BOĞAZIÇI UNIVERSITY

Boğaziçi University is a public institution, formally established in 1971. Originally it was founded in 1863 as Robert College, which was the first American college outside of the U.S. It has a long tradition of excellence in undergraduate education serving the most elite students of the region. Admission to undergraduate programs is extremely competitive. Most of the students admitted to undergraduate degree programs place in the top one half of one percent of the more than one million Turkish students seeking admission to university annually. In recent years, the University has also increased its emphasis on its graduate programs and research.

Currently Boğaziçi University hosts about 15,000 students, 11,000 of whom are undergraduates. The number of faculty members, who are prominent figures in their fields, is approximately 1200.

CAMPUSES

Boğaziçi University encompasses 6 campuses. Many of the University's buildings are located on its South Campus(the original campus of Robert College), with the Bosphorus and the historical fortress of Rumelihisarı as its neighbour to the east. This campus encompasses the oldest buildings of the University. The North Campus, Hisar Campus, and Uçaksavar Campus host the relatively recently acquired facilities and are at walking distances from South Campus. The Kandilli Campus, housing the observatory, is on the Asian side of the Bosphorus. Saritepe Campus, near Kilyos on the Black Sea coast is 34 km from South Campus and it is mainly used for the English Prep School Education.

INTERNATIONALIZATION

Boğaziçi University values diversity among its students and faculty. Approximately 8% of the student body is international and this ratio is increasing, particularly at the graduate level. Office of International Relations caters for internationalization efforts of the University through its partners all over the world. Boğaziçi University actively participates in Erasmus program (as of 2004) and exchange programs with US institutions through which it gives its students the chance of studying abroad for one-semester. For 2012/2013 the number of Boğaziçi University students participating in Erasmus and Exchange programs was 439, and in 2013/2014 this number rose to 500. In addition to high numbers of outgoing students, Boğaziçi University welcomes students from all over the world. The number of incoming students for the academic year 2012/2013 was 588 whereas in 2013/2014 this number rose to 618.

LIVING ARRANGEMENTS

The University Halls of Residence can accommodate approximately 2500 students. Special students may apply to live in residence halls but do not have any special priority. For this reason it is important to give notice of one's intent to study at Boğaziçi and to apply early. Depending upon available space, in most cases special students will be placed in a shared suite with two to five other students in the newest and best equipped residence hall known as Superdorm. The dormitory offers co-ed housing options where you can choose between 2, 3, or 4-bedroom suites. Superdorm is established on the campus of "Uçaksavar Cultural and Sports Facilities" of Boğaziçi in the highly valued residential area of Istanbul called "Etiler". It is about 2.5 kilometers or a 15-minute walk from the South Campus. Within the rooms are included twin beds, curtains, desks with chairs, built-in shelves and cupboards/ closet, cable, internet and phone. In addition, private accommodation possibilities exist in the vicinity of the University as well as in other areas of the city. There is no meal contract; meals can be taken in the various campus cafeterias for about $2 each or in the many local restaurants at an average of $5-$10/day.

STUDENT LIFE

Student life within the University is rich and varied with activities to cater to almost all talents and interests. The University traditionally places great emphasis on and strongly encourages participation in extra-curricular activities that are complementary to the educational objectives of the institution and cultivate the interests of students. Currently there exist more than 40 different Student Clubs which aim to enrich the social lives of students. The University also provides a comprehensive sports program and excellent facilities that are available to exchange students. Participation in such activities is a preferred way to meet fellow students. The University also provides its students with a variety of vital services from health care to counseling. An extensive library, an efficient working film center as well as the traditional classical music concerts help to enrich the cultural lives of the students. For more information, please visit:
